Election Contest

The Governor has designated Judge McNemoore, of the Suffolk circuit to hold court here beginning October 1st, in the place and stead of Judge Hundley, who is sick.

He will have for final decision the question of whether the officers of Appomattox county held an undue election in the county on August 7th. More than one hundred witnesses have testified that they were qualified voters, would have supported the nominies of the primary, but were illegally refused the right of suffrage.

Then the Judge will have the murder trial of Com. vs. McCoy, charged with the killing of Beverly.

There will be sundry chancery orders and motions and we are expecting to have the Judge with us the most of the week.

Owing to the importance of the contested election cases of Harwood for treasurer and Clement for commonwealth's attorney, it is expected to come up on the first day of October.

Special Meetings at Liberty Church

On Sunday September 2nd the annual meeting at Liberty church began and continued until Sunday night September 16th, when the closing service was held. Services were held daily morning and night during the time, with the exception of Saturday mornings.

If church attendance is an evidence of the integrity of a community, surely Appomattox is a worth while place. Despite the fact that meetings had been held, in town, previous to this meeting, the people showed no sign of being tired or disinterested. We could not ask the people to be more loyal in their attendance, despite many of them worked during the day in the tobacco field, at night, they were in the house of God.

The singing was especially fine Bro. Jesse T. Williams of the Home Board Staff, was with us for the third time, and his popularity has not diminished. The earnest christian spirit he manifests in his songs, as well as his prayers and appeals are gripping. The folkr love him.

Rev. John E. Barnard, of Cartersville, Ga., was the preacher. This was his first visit to Appomattox and to Virginia. He is an able preacher and a splendid evangelist. His strong presentation of the fundamentals of salvation and christian living made a decided impression on his hearers and the folks heard him with interest and helpfulness. The Lord bless our brother in his faithful, earnest presentation of the things fundamental.

Quite a number were received for baptism, some renewed their covenant with the church, and several came under the watchcare of the church.

Crowds were present especially on Sunday nights. The fact is Appomattox folks are a church going people. God bless them.
